

Dear Sir/Madam

1. I am writing in response to the ARRL request to restructure the Amateur Radio Licensing. I wholeheartedly support the ARRL plan. I currently hold a Technician license and view the CW test as an outdated obstacle to upgrading.

2. Persons wishing to communicate via Morse code will, thru there own accord, learn the code. As the production of powerful and cheap voice radios grows, the amount of CW will continue to drop.

3. The use of CW in an emergency is overstated. There is currently no requirement in the Police, Fire, Red Cross or Medical communications community to learn CW.

Sincerely,

Jon Davis, KI4DPO
